the convention to order shortly after moon, the Culisaum presented a more inspiring appearance than on the previous day. The galleries were for the first time crowded, and the large number of laddes present were especially noticeable.

Among the first of the prominent men to enter the hall were Senators Platt and Depew. They were welcomed heartly, Senator Depew's happy speech of the day before not having been forgotten. The Alaska delegation, with their eagle surmounted on totem poles, were the second attraction. The greatest domonstration as the delegations were entering the hall was that which greatest domonstration as the delegations were entering the hall was that which greated Senator Fairbanks, who had become known as the national choice for the second place on the ticket. It exceeded in enthusiasm the ovation of the first day.

Speaker Cannon's oratory was decidedly to the liking of the convention. He established corollal relations even before he had uttered a word. He stood in silence for a moment on a tongue-like projection in the center of the platform. His face fascinated, it expressed abundant humor, strangely blended with virile pugnacity. He was pausing to think how to begin. His thoughts were pleusant; they were inspiring. Instinctively, he drew himself up and characteristically raised his hand for gesture even before he spoke, Then came a delightfully refreshing and humorously frank avowal. he said, and then he abandoned himself to his limitless store of profound politi-cal sagacity and his original and char-acteristic vocabulary. Throughout his ad-dress the cheering was generous, intelli-gent and appreciative.

In 1850, we had been substantially dominated for many years by the free trade party, insignificant in manufactures, great in agriculture. Under our policy, which has been followed with the exception of four years from that time to this, the United States remains first in agriculture, the industries, until to-day we are the greatest manufacturing country on God's foot-stool. That young, true man in Washington has seen to it that laws are enforced, and they went out of existence. The Missouri delegation to-night seems least inclined to abandon their intention to place Mr. Walbridge in nomination. Long tefore the meeting began the theatre was surrounded by tremendous crowds waiting for admission, and before the first speech was concluded a cordon of policemen surrounded the theatre to prevent any one else from forcing an entrance.

The Platform.

The platform adopted was as follows:

Fifty years ago the Republican party came into existence, dedicated among other purposes the great task of arresting the extension of human slavery. In 1860 it elected its first president. During twenty-four of the forty-four years which elapsed since the election of Lincip twenty-four of the forty-four years which elapsed since party has held formpitte control of the control through the possession of one or two branches of the government, while the Democratic party during the same period has had complete control of only two years. This long tenurs of power by the Republican party is not flue to chance. This can party is not flue to chance, and party is a demonstration that the control of only two years. This long tenurs of power by the Republican party is not provided the confidence of the control of the provided in the provided in our history, and has displayed a high capacity for rule and government which had made even more consplictous by the incapacity and infirmity of purpose shown by its opponent.

The Republican party entered upon flae present periop of complete suppressor provided the country after four years of Democratic rule in evid work shock then accomplished, for it has added luster even to the traditions of the party which carried the government through the storms of Civil War.

We then found the country after four years of Democratic rule in evid doubtful of the future. Produce were demonstration at a flue to work spain was feeble and mortifying, the standard of values was threatened and uncertain, labor was linearing the feet was growing, the administration at a stitude toward Spain was feeble and mortifying, the standard of values was threatened and uncertain, labor was linearing the feet was growing, the administration of the country and i have organized civil government, made it effective and strong in administration and have conferred upon the people of those islands the largest civil liberty they have ever enjoyed. By our possession of the Philippines we were enabled to take prompt and effective action in the relief of the legations at Pekin and a decisive part in preventing the partition and preserving the integrity of China. The possession of a route for an istimizan canal, so long the dream of American statesmanship, is now an accomplished fact. The great work of connecting the Pacific and Atlantic by a canal is at last begun and it is due to the Republican party. We have passed laws which will bring the arid lands of the United States within the area of cultivation.

We have reorganized the army and put it in the highest state of efficiency.

We have passed laws for the improvement and support of the militia. We have pushed forward the building of the navy, the defense and protection of our honor and interest, our administration of the great departments of the government has been honest and efficient and wherever wrong-doing has been discovered the Republican administration has not hestiated to probe the evil and bring offenders to justice without reference to part or political thes.

Laws enacted by the Republican

Laws enacted by the Republican party, which the Domocratic party failed to enforce and which were intended for the protection of the public against the united discrimination or the illegal encroachment of vist aggregations of capital have been feariessly enforced by a Republican president and new laws ensuring reasonable publicity as to the operations of great corporations and providing additional remedes for the prevention of discrimination in freight rates have been passed by a Republican congress. In this record of achievement during the pasteight years may be read the piedges which the Republican party has fulfilled. We promise to continue these policies and we declare our constant adherence to the following principles: Protection which guards and develops our industries is a cardinal policy of the Republican party. The measure of protection should always, at least equal the difference of the toost of production at home and abroad. We insist upon the maintenance of the principles of protection should be re-adjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration, but this work cannot safely be committed to any other hands than those of the Republican party. To entrust to the Democratic party is to invite disaster. Whether, as in 1822, the Democratic party declared the protective starff unconstitutional, or whether it demands tariff reform, or tariff revision, its real object is always the destruction of the protective system. However, specious the name the purpose is ever the same. Dmocratic tariff and she protective tariff unconstitutional, or whether it demands tariff reform, or tariff revision, its real object is always the destruction of the protective system.
